Give a Romantic Turn to the Johns

The motion for a new trial in the Johns will case was argued in Baltimore Saturday in the Court of Common Please, and testi-mony of an unusually entertaining charac-ter was brought out. The following in reation to the proceedings is taken from the Baltimore Sun of yesterday: The principal ground on which the new trial is asked for was that one of the jurers, Mr. Bareda Turner, a young gentleman in his twentyfifth year, and a member of the Corn and er Exchange, who testified that he especiates a little when a favorable op-portunity presents itself," was influenced the verdict which sets aside the li by the speaking glances and sweet smiles of a young lady,
